Hot choice ... some of the finalists' work in the Signature of Sydney competition

Emerald City makes a colourful contest

By ELIZABETH
FORTESCUE

A COMPETITION to design a poster that sums up Sydney's magic — and which could be used to promote Sydney to the world — has inspired artists to think of things, sexy lips and budgie smugglers.

These are among the 260 poster concepts submitted to the Signature of Sydney art competition. The winning artist will scoop $150,000.

German-born Benjamin Jung and Karsten Knorr were new to Sydney when they invited artists to enter the prize last year.

Under the rules, the names of 500 businesses, which would each pay $2000, would all have to appear within the finished artwork.

The winning poster, unveiled on December 12, will also be auctioned for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.
